

Becoming a Political Animal: Being strategic for our profession

Coralie Lennea BScOT Executive Director the with the Saskatchewan Society of Occupational Therapists

Karen Jacobs Karen Jacobs, Ed.D., OTR/L, CPE, FAOTA

As occupational practitioners and students we have a unique set of skills to enhance participation in society as a bridge to health and independence. However, we need to ensure that our political leaders understand what we have to offer. Through case examples, this presentation will discuss how to hone your advocacy skills.
