Yeah!!! Back on it...

08:52 to: Brock Cook
lol wb Andrea

09:23 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
so true... inclusive tourism is much needed... especially for some great tourist destinations

09:46 to: Helen OTUK
Glad you are back Andrea, enjoy brilliant!

20:38 to: tasneem
amazing

21:15 to: Karen Jacobs
This is such an important aspect that we forget.

21:39 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
oh yes... I think Hong Kong will be very important in regards to individuals with Autism (if they want to go there for travel)

21:53 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
the sensory environment can be pretty overwhelming in that country

22:41 to: Rashid Kashani
oh canada!

22:46 to: Merrolee (NZ)
Hi Lynn.. just saw you are in the class :-)

24:00 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
maybe I could help do such a manual for Hong Kong, my home country. :)

24:19 to: Marion (Aberdeen, Scotland)
Oh how I hate Fire alarms! Feel like I have missed the whole of this session!

27:12 to: Andrea(Scotland)

Andrew just gave an example of a manager in restaurant blowing up a menu to help him see it better..

28:02 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
really... that's interesting, Andrea

28:07 to: Julie C - Ireland
(y)

28:22 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
maybe restaurants should use smart menus. :)

28:40 to: Julie C - Ireland
Smart Menus??

28:55 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
well... like having a restaurant menu on an iPad

28:56 to: tasneem
u mean as in using an ipad bill ??

29:18 to: Julie C - Ireland
Ah yeah really good idea

29:33 to: Julie C - Ireland
Im so not techno haha

29:35 to: Karen Jacobs
The iPad is now becoming a gimmick as a menu

29:50 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
really, didn't know about that Karen

30:22 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
I know in some chinese restaurants (Hong Kong and LA), sometimes we check off items on a menu (unfortunately that is paper based)

30:51 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
but perhaps with the new iPad mini... maybe this will be more affordable

32:45 to: Kaija Hakanen
Thank you Susan, very interesting!

32:52 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
thanks Susan... very interesting

33:01 to: Esra OT
I know I came late but I really am sooo sorry I missed ur presentation

33:03 to: Susan Coppola
thanks

33:04 to: NickaZ
Very relevant and well presented. Thank you.

33:14 to: Elaam Leung
Thank you! Sorry i came in late!

33:19 to: Susan Coppola
is anyone doing this sort of work?

33:23 to: tasneem
thank you very much for the presentatin

33:41 to: Andrea(Scotland)
Hi Elaam

34:00 to: Elaam Leung
Hi Andrea! :D

34:06 to: maureen.moore1
It was fabulous thank you....loved it and much food for thought...

34:48 to: Andrea(Scotland)
some of the biggest issue I have found in going places is simple things as accessible chnaging facitlies.. Swimming pools with higher temps and hoisting

35:09 to: @Wardmans (The Netherlands)
as a student: is there a place where i can find all the topics i need to pay attention to when inspecting places?

35:21 to: Esra OT
how can I get this session recorded from ? I am really very interested in this

35:47 to: Rashid Kashani
it will be available on OT4OT site in next few weeks

35:56 to: Anita Hamilton
we will post a link on our website

36:05 to: NickaZ
What would be great to see is a resource for clients about what happens when they need to travel by plane.

36:07 to: Anita Hamilton
ot4ot.com

36:11 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT

yes... and changing the sensory experiences can be really difficult (such as going to a dim sum restaurant during a busy time for someone with SPD)

36:32 to: Esra OT

aha, thank you very much, its really valueable

36:47 to: NickaZ

Hear hear! about the single room accessible. A bit of an issue when you have a sports team travelling together.

36:59 to: Anita Hamilton

Yes!!

38:21 to: Susan Coppola

other comments or experiences?

38:27 to: @Wardmans (The Netherlands)

as a student: is there a place where i can find all the topics i need to pay attention to when inspecting places?

39:30 to: Sheila S-Maine

Please comment on working with airlines on accessibility.

<http://www.dpiap.org/> , is it this?

39:41 to: Helen OTUK

It is a shame ClaireOT is not here. She often blogs about difficulties when accessing transport.

40:04 to: Andrea(Scotland)

Most airports will accomadate chnaging when travelling, however need lots of waning and it;s wort visiting before going on the trip

yeay! good idea

45:12 to: Anita Hamilton
Hmmm... But shouldn't it be universally accessible?

45:30 to: Anita Hamilton
ie: shouldn't travel agents improve their skills?

45:48 to: Merrolee (NZ)
big issue down here, but still doesn't mean everything is very accessible... my friend is staying in a wheelchair accessible motel unit post his spinal injury (62 year old) on bicycle. He couldn't eas

46:38 to: Anita Hamilton
I would hate to segregate PWD off to separate travel agncies

46:54 to: Esra OT
shouldnt we make a course of essential training for persons who plan for building places about this ?
