14:00 to: Clarissa (Australia)

It's interesting to review all 5 and think which one's you trade for others. . .the balance within the balancing act!

14:04 to: Merrolee Penman

LOL!

14:16 to: Brock Cook

agree Clarissa

14:26 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT

haha! If I present next year... maybe I should impersonate someone with a HEAVY Chinese accent... lol!

14:35 to: Linda

cheers ailsa

14:46 to: Clarissa (Australia)

Brock, you'll be pleased to know my guinea pig is learning all about balance with me lazing on the couch :)

14:53 to: Ailsa

18:15 to: Clarissa (Australia)
So justice is means, balance is end?

18:29 to: Merrolee Penman
bit os

18:37 to: Merrolee Penman
sorry.. isn't balance a western concept?

18:53 to: Charles Christiansen 3
these are good questions!

19:09 to: Emma Welsby
can we get the slides anywhere afterwards?

19:11 to: Linda
balance not present in AU?

19:26 to: Merrolee Penman
Emma - the sessions are recorded, the links are made availalbe in the next few days.

19:34 to: Anne-Le
I find balance is an universal concept, but with different ways of seeking balance

19:41 to: Brock Cook
you'll have to ask Rob, after his pres Emma :)

19:43 to: Linda
(Y)

19:45 to: Emma Welsby
ok

19:47 to: Merrolee Penman
you can access the recordings and play it through afterwards to make notes..

19:49 to: Merrolee Penman
perhaps..

19:57 to: Charles Christiansen 3
...and opportunities...

20:12 to: Merrolee Penman

Does every cultural group have a notion of balance re relation to occupations - I'm not sure..

20:12 to: Emma Welsby
yes, where do we access the recordings?

20:21 to: Brock Cook
on the ot4ot side

20:22 to: Brock Cook
*site

20:27 to: Merrolee Penman
Same site as the schedule.. the link will change from this

20:29 to: Emma Welsby
thanks

20:32 to: Merrolee Penman
these rooms to the recordings.

20:38 to: Ros
Good question Merrolee

20:49 to: Charles Christiansen 3
hi Brock!

21:17 to: Merrolee Penman
back to notion of balance for cultures... is there a notion of balance in occupations - or balance with the land?

21:29 to: Merrolee Penman
thinking If Lyndon's welcome today..

21:38 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
I agree with Anne Le there... I think different cultures value balance differently

22:08 to: Brock Cook
Hi Charles! hows the weather over your way?

22:21 to: Merrolee Penman
Maori would agree with you there Rob.. or would have!

22:34 to: Charles Christiansen 3
great Brock- no storm here

22:37 to: Linda
true - altho it is very individual with so much immigration you cant limit to land???

22:41 to: Brock Cook

ahh good to hear :)

22:50 to: Anne-Le

I find the balance that many so-called eastern religions or philosophies include reflects on their occupations, though it might be different from our ideas of occupational balance

23:04 to: Clarissa (Australia)

Goals for better balance might assume people control the determinants of their health, instead people may focus on coping and protest.

23:05 to: Merrolee Penman

Maori are working to hold to the land.

23:23 to: Clarissa (Australia)

Key to First Australian health too

23:49 to: Merrolee Penman

Agree Clarissa -

24:21 to: Ellen Nicholson

Meaningful, purposeful and dignified participation...nice.

24:30 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT

I so agree on the "feeling lonely and isolated" piece- especially for some adults on the autism spectrum who are diagnosed when they are adults

25:03 to: Charles Christiansen 3

I agree too, Bill!

25:03 to: Dan Johnson NZ

i think the key word is belonging in that statement

25:08 to: Merrolee Penman

such a sad story..

25:20 to: Merrolee Penman

I saw that too Dan... f

25:48 to: Linda

good group opps in certain areas for adult ASD +ve peer support within UK

26:03 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT

in the US, that can be pretty spotty

26:08 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT

especially if they live in rural areas

26:20 to: Linda same same :)

26:24 to: Dan Johnson NZ
can be a 'postcode' lottery in the uk, and most places

26:34 to: Linda
(y) @ Dan

26:37 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
I personally am lucky... I am a student in USC... so I get OT in form of OT faculty practice from the school

26:41 to: Merrolee Penman
so what do you see in NZ DAn?

27:09 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
some adults with ASD asked me... "What the heck do you have?" When they learned it, they were like, "Geez... you are so lucky. I wish there are services like that near where I live."

27:10 to: Ailsa
Welcome Michelle

27:21 to: Emma Welsby
Hi Mich.. it's Emma, glad to see you here xx

27:31 to: Dan Johnson NZ
in NZ i think it's far more directly linked to population size (from my brief time here)... and associated localised services...

27:42 to: Dan Johnson NZ
or lack thereof

27:59 to: Ros
I'd agree with Dan from my limited experience in NZ

28:04 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT
of course... I also do see some adults with ASD (even those with AS) are living by SSDI- which is short for social security for disabled individuals (if I am correct)

28:15 to: Clarissa (Australia)
In Taswegia, some ladies of a similar cohort started a knitting club with social worker in community health centre so there's a space outside the house to "belong"

28:27 to: Michelle Perryman
i couldnt make it earlier emma was to exhausted looking forward to catching up with the rest! hope u are enjoying it emma x

28:33 to: Clarissa (Australia)

They knit beanies for the asylum seekers in the detention centre

28:39 to: Linda

very common in Uk Bill - living off DLA - Disability Living Allowance

28:43 to: Dan Johnson NZ

love that 'big society' approach.. thats people taking responsibility for other people...

28:47 to: Emma Welsby

Yip, great so far.. xx

28:54 to: Dan Johnson NZ

reardles of 'labels'

29:02 to: Dan Johnson NZ

regardles....

29:07 to: Merrolee Penman

there's your connectnedness Dan..

29:21 to: Linda

"big society" = Big B/S?!?!?

29:48 to: Merrolee Penman

recognition leads to connection..

29:53 to: Dan Johnson NZ

is it an internalised sense of desire to help, or simple recognition of a communist concept....?

30:13 to: Ailsa

Hi beckz123 welcome to this presentation :)

Welcome Ot student from Germany Willkommen!

30:50 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT

Just a comment - great to be part of the 'critical occupational science' discourse & exploring the complex relationship between policy and occupation... well done! :)

34:48 to: Ailsa
hi Jo we are just taking questions now

35:07 to: Charles Christiansen 3

35:13 to: Jo Lawrence
Hi, thanks for welcome.

Ellen if you have web cam could use that instead of mike?

Merrolee: back to notion of balance for cultures... is there a notion of balance in occupations - or balance with the land?

35:42 to: Ros
Thanks very much, got to go and skype before the next presentation :)

I don't really have anything to add! :)

Hello Davin and welcome we are taking questions now

40:00 to: Linda

in showing use of policy within wider participation, how would you measure outcome?

40:25 to: Brock Cook

Its a horrible form :S

40:28 to: Clarissa (Australia)

Where the resources are located along the spectrum of promotion- prevention- early intervention etc matters. Budget squeeze = cut everything other than tertiary measures :(

40:43 to: Ailsa

hello Ahmed. Welcome!We are just taking questions now from the listeners to Rob

40:46 to: Brock Cook

ive filled out tonnes of them...takes forever with someone who understands it...even longer when barriers put up

40:51 to: Linda

tertiary measures?

40:54 to: Bill Wong @BillWongOT

yeah... budget cuts everywhere all over the world. :(

41:19 to: Dan Johnson NZ

is it simply down to the morality and personal ethics of the people making the decisions? ad how do we address this? just a thought...

41:25 to: Charles Christiansen 3

I noticed that the Australian government has taken particular steps with the Aborigines to encourage and protect their arts-especially as regards the sale of their artifacts to tourists, etc. , I thin k that is a terrific example of what you mean by encouraging participation-in this case in a manner that fosters respect as well as work and financial benefit.

41:25 to: Charles Christiansen 3

42:02 to: Clarissa (Australia)

Tertiary services like hospitals - the most complex, expensive, individualistic, de-contextualised input to attempt a health outcome you have my vote!

43:43 to: Robert Pereira Trying to avoid it Dan. Don't know for how much longer ;)

43:45 to: Clarissa (Australia)
@Dan, when your decisions are between crap, crappier, and crappiest it changes things a bit. . .

44:09 to: Dan Johnson NZ
fair point clarissa!

44:39 to: Dan Johnson NZ
is some choice better than no choice?

44:57 to: Michelle Perryman
i found the ideologies of the setting placed may restrict or promote occupational parcipations. Also the impact of others prospectives.. Managers etc.. Shifting the power ballard... Hear Hear!!!
